

OFFICE FOR MULTICULTURAL FACULTY CAREERS

The Office for Multicultural Faculty Careers provides leadership in the areas of recruitment, retention and advancement of underrepresented minority (URM) faculty, fellows, residents and students at Brigham and Women's Hospital. We provide a wide range of programs and services at BWH and in collaboration with Harvard Medical School and its affiliate institutions.

The Office is part of the Center for Faculty Development and Diversity at Brigham and Women's Hospital which also includes the Office for Women's Careers and the Office for Postdoctoral and Research Careers. The Center for Faculty Development and Diversity provides a comprehensive and coordinated approach to the professional development of all BWH faculty and trainees.

Office for Multicultural Faculty Careers

Jabbar R. Bennett, PhD, Administrative Director
Christian Arbelaez, MD, MPH, Associate Director
BWHOMC@partners.org
617-525-9324
www.brighamandwomens.org/cfdd/omc

BRIGHAM AND
WOMEN'S HOSPITAL

Center for Faculty Development & Diversity

Office for Multicultural
Faculty Careers

Sharing strategies. Supporting careers.

BRIGHAM AND
WOMEN'S HOSPITAL

CENTER FOR

Faculty Development & Diversity

Office for Multicultural Faculty Careers
Office for Postdoctoral and Research Careers
Office for Women's Careers

Member of  PARTNERS HealthCare

 A Teaching Affiliate of Harvard Medical School

Dedicated to enhancing diversity and inspiring leaders.

The Office for Multicultural Faculty Careers is devoted to helping ensure the success of underrepresented minority (URM) faculty and trainees at Brigham and Women's Hospital. Our focus is on creating and supporting an exemplary and inclusive faculty—one that reflects the diversity of the population BWH trains and serves.

DEVOTED TO CAREERS

The Office provides tools and resources meant to help increase the number of underrepresented minority faculty, fellows, residents and students at BWH, and enhance the professional development and support the academic promotion of these individuals.

COMMITTED TO LEADERSHIP

We offer an array of career development opportunities for our constituents. Through dynamic collaborations with BWH departments, Harvard Medical School and its affiliated institutions, area colleges and universities, and local and state agencies, we also present a variety of professional development programming ranging from physician leadership to minority health research and policy training.

AN ARRAY OF RESOURCES

The career training, commitment to patient care, focus on education, and opportunities to engage in leading research endeavors are world renowned at Brigham and Women's Hospital. To complement BWH's ongoing commitment to diversity, the Office for Multicultural Faculty Careers offers the following resources:

- Career and professional development coaching
- Leadership development training
- Individual consultation and resources regarding promotion
- Mentoring opportunities
- Skill building training
- Networking and special events
- Minority Faculty Career Development Awards and travel stipends
- Assistance with departmental recruitment efforts
- Support for pipeline recruitment efforts
- Access to an ombudsperson
- Programs and events available through collaboration with Harvard Medical School and its teaching affiliates

Through our collaborative efforts, the Office for Multicultural Faculty Careers serves as a valuable resource for underrepresented minority faculty at Brigham and Women's Hospital.

FIND OUT MORE

We invite you to learn more about the wide range of programs and services available through the Office for Multicultural Faculty Careers at Brigham and Women's Hospital.

Contact us at BWHOMC@partners.org or 617-525-9324