

Postdoc Representatives on Research Oversight Committee (ROC)

Full Members:

Margaret “Molly” E. McLaughlin-Drubin, Ph.D., Channing Lab, Department of Medicine, BWH

I would like to serve as a postdoc representative on the Research Oversight Committee (ROC) to ensure that the concerns of the postdoctoral community are voiced during the development of BWH policies. Through my involvement with the BWH Office for Postdoctoral Careers and the HMS/HSDM Postdoctoral Association, I am cognizant of the many postdoctoral issues that we face. As such, I will do my best to promote the interests of the postdoctoral community and keep the community apprised of pertinent information.

Lucas Torres, M.D., Psychiatry Neuroimaging Laboratory, Department of Psychiatry, BWH

I am glad to offer my time and energy to help the Postdoc community at the Brigham. Having participated in many activities organized by the BWH Office for Postdoctoral and Research Careers, and being a foreign postdoc, I am aware of the issues that postdocs face. As a representative on the Research Oversight Committee (ROC), I will do my best to ensure that our efforts and interests are translated in new polices and programs.

Alternate Member:

Karin Hellner, M.D., Channing Laboratory, Department of Medicine, BWH

I am a Postdoc at BWH for 1.5 years. I have been always very passionate about my working environment. I think we should enforce a more transparent discussion within the scientific society, in general, and in the postdoctoral community here at the BWH, in particular, regarding the rights and duties of Postdocs. Therefore, being part of the Research Oversight Committee is a great opportunity to ensure that postdoctoral concerns and issues are addressed in an appropriate way. I will put a lot of effort and time in promoting all postdoctoral interests. Since I am from Germany I am also very aware of issues that foreign Postdocs have to face living and working in the US.
