A Reminder for the Health and Safety of our Children

Please remember the basic restrictions necessary surrounding the presence of minors in research laboratory spaces. These restrictions cover all research laboratories and other BWH research areas that present physical, chemical, biological, or other potential health hazards. It is our responsibility to be mindful of the dangers to minors that exist in our research facilities. All minors must be constantly supervised by a responsible adult when in a research building. Minors under the age of 16 are prohibited from entering laboratory areas or other areas where hazardous materials or conditions may be present, unless they are participating in a BWH-sponsored educational program. Did You Know?

BWH Editorial Service

A new webpage and email address make the BWH Editorial Service more accessible than ever. Please submit work to the following address: bwhes@rics.bwh.harvard.edu, which will automatically forward to all three editors, Paul Guttry, Jeanne Zimmermann, and Jaylyn Olivo. Editors check manuscripts for style, grammar, consistency, and scientific content. This is especially useful for non-native English writers. This is a free service for BWH researchers. Please visit the Editorial Service webpage for more information.
