

Chewable Vitamin Shopping Guide

Helpful reminders about your bariatric vitamin needs:

- You will need multivitamin(s) (with iron and b12) AND separate calcium (see page 3 for options)
- You should be on chewable vitamins from stage 3A until at least stage 4 post-surgery
 - Avoid “gummy” multivitamins (they are not complete for bariatric needs)
- Separate your iron (usually in the multivitamin) from calcium supplement by at least 2 hours
- Any vitamin not on this list should be brought into your nutrition appointment for approval

VITAMIN B12 Options

*If your multivitamin does not contain at least 350 mcg of B12, you need additional (350-500 mcg daily)

- Choose "sublingual", "chewable" or "liquid" form until at least stage 4 of diet
- You can take vitamin B12 at any time: with your multivitamin(s) OR calcium
- Nasal sprays or injections are also options for vitamin B12. Ask your bariatric team about these.

Vitamin B12 can be easily found at several stores including:

BJs, Costco, CVS, GNC, Grocery Stores, Rite Aid, Target, Vitamin Shoppe, Walgreens, Walmart, etc
