

Strong support from the emergency medicine faculty provides ED schedule flexibility that allows last-minute fellow deployment to disaster areas. Throughout the fellowship, fellows are generally expected to be prepared to travel for up to two months with as little as 48 hours' notice.

Evaluations

Fellows meet with the Fellowship Director regularly and receive a formal written evaluation every six months. The Chair of Emergency Medicine reviews fellows' clinical performance. International fieldwork is evaluated by field personnel and fellowship faculty. The fellowship curriculum is reviewed every six months by the Fellowship Director to ensure relevance to fellowship goals. The fellow will review clinical, academic, and field experiences regularly with the Fellowship Director.

Global Emergency Medicine Faculty

Harvard is rich with international experts and leaders in many areas relevant to the fellowship. Fellows have access to a wealth of resources including faculty at Harvard Medical School, the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health, the John F. Fellowship Benefits

Fellows receive a competitive salary and generous package of faculty benefits and CME funds. Full tuition and fees related to the Harvard T. H. Chan School of Public Health MPH degree program, including the cost of required textbooks (up to $1,000), are covered by the fellowship. Costs of attending the ICRC's H.E.L.P. course, the Humanitarian Response Intensive Course, and the International Emergency Department Leadership Institute's Essentials Course are also fully paid. Fellowship-related travel costs are paid, including airfare, room and board, global malpractice insurance coverage, and international medical and evacuation insurance. Two weeks of vacation and two weeks for educational pursuits are allowed per year.

Application Requirements

Applicants must be board certified or board eligible in emergency medicine when they begin the fellowship. Successful applicants must also (1) receive a clinical appointment at Brigham and Women's Hospital, (2) receive a clinical fellow appointment at Harvard Medical School, (3) obtain a Massachusetts medical license, and (4) be accepted into the MPH program by the Harvard T. H. Chan School of Public Health.

Fellowship candidates must submit the following materials via email to iem@partners.org by the September 20th application deadline. Please see the application for further details.

1. Application form
2. Letter of interest
3. CV
4. Personal statement
5. Three letters of recommendation (one from residency director or current chairman)

Fellowship candidates must also apply separately to the MPH program of the Harvard T. H. Chan School of Public Health by the December 1 deadline. For application information and instructions, visit www.hsph.harvard.edu/admissions/.

Thank you for your interest in our program. Please feel free to contact us with any questions about the fellowship or your application.
