Join us in Transforming the Future of Primary Care

Brigham and Women's Hospital is a founding member of Mass General Brigham and a teaching affiliate of Harvard Medical School. At Brigham and Women's Hospital, our team of providers deliver exceptional care with passion and purpose. Our growing network of primary care practices in eastern Massachusetts is testimony to Brigham and Women's commitment to primary care as a critical component of managing populations, and our dedication to providing the best experience and health outcomes for our patients.

Brigham and Women's Primary Care seeks a (BC/BE) Internal Medicine Physician or a Family Medicine Physician to join our innovative and patient-centric practices in the greater Boston area and surrounding communities. You will have the opportunity to work alongside esteemed clinicians and world-class specialists from Brigham and Women's Hospital.

Our clinics focus on providing patient-centered, high-quality team-based care, and education. Our team leverages knowledge analytics to provide population health. We embrace the care of the whole patient with multidisciplinary teams to provide expanded services. Delve into patient-focused practice while embracing a team and value-based population health management approach. Our clinics operate within a supportive, culturally sensitive, team-based model centered around patients. We are an equal opportunity employer, encouraging applications from all qualified candidates.

Depending upon the position, there may be opportunities to teach residents and medical students. Harvard Medical School Faculty appointments require at least 50 hours of teaching per academic year.
