

Brigham and Women's Hospital Consultation-Liaison Psychiatry Fellows

Kathryne Adams, MD - kadams16@mgb.org

Katie was born and raised in the New England area. She completed her medical school training at Rush Medical College in Chicago but returned home to New England to complete her residency training at Tufts Medical Center. Her interest in Consult-Liaison Psychiatry started early in medical school and was amplified in residency. She has a passion for critical care psychiatry, organ transplantation, and prevention of violence in the hospital workplace. She plans to continue an academic career after fellowship as she plans to continue mentorship and research in addition to a clinical career. When not in the hospital, she enjoys trying new restaurants, spending time with friends and family, reading, and trying to get in yoga classes.

Laura Marengo, MD - lmarengo@mgb.org

Laura was born and raised in Montreal, though spent much of her time in Italy and in NYC growing up. She completed medical school at the University of Pittsburgh and psychiatry residency at MGH/McLean, where she served both as Acute Psychiatry Service (APS) and addiction psychiatry chief resident. As a CL fellow, Laura works as the emergency psychiatry liaison, and her ambulatory clinics include addiction psychiatry as well as cancer and transplant psychiatry. Laura's professional interests include addiction psychiatry, emergency psychiatry, personality disorders, and transplant psychiatry, particularly in patients with substance use. In the outpatient setting, she is interested in couples therapy.

Sean Oldak, MD - seoldak@bwh.harvard.edu

Sean was born and raised in Miami, FL. He completed his psychiatry residency at the University of Miami/Jackson Memorial Hospital, where he served as Chief Resident during his PGY-4 year, further developing his leadership, academic, and teaching skills. His passion for Consultation-Liaison Psychiatry deepened during residency, leading him to pursue fellowship training at Brigham and Women's Hospital/Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in the Psycho-oncology track. His professional interests include psycho-oncology, palliative care, trauma-informed psychiatric care, and the psychiatric effects of immunotherapy. He is committed to a career in academic psychiatry as a C-L attending, with long-term goals of contributing to medical education, curriculum development, and mentorship. Outside of medicine, he enjoys spending time with his spouse and their two dogs, exploring Boston, reading, watching baseball, and listening to music.

Jamie Osinovsky - josinovsky@bwh.harvard.edu

Jamie is originally from Texas. She completed medical school at Texas Tech University and her psychiatry residency at the University of Virginia, where she served as the inaugural Chief Resident of the Consultation-Liaison service, received the Anne L. Brodie Resident Clinician Award for excellence in clinical knowledge, skill, and patient care, and completed one year as junior faculty in both the inpatient and outpatient setting. As a CL fellow at Brigham and Women's Hospital/Harvard Medical School, Jamie specializes in psycho-oncology. Her early career interests include the neuropsychiatric complications of cancer and cancer treatments, critical care psychiatry, women's mental health, and medical education.

Avneet Soin - asoin@mgb.org

Avneet Soin graduated from Tufts University School of Medicine, and completed her residency at New York University Grossman School of Medicine, where she served as education chief resident during her last year. She is a general track CL fellow, and currently serves as the inpatient neuropsychiatry liaison. Her ambulatory clinics include the Cardiovascular Psychiatry and GI Psychiatry clinics. She excited to explore the different CL subspecialties this year, and her other clinical interests include neuromodulation, cultural psychiatry, and advocacy work. She is additionally an APAF Diversity Leadership Fellow. Outside of work, she enjoys going to concerts, trying new restaurants and bakeries, and reading.

Emma Torncello - etorncello@bwh.harvard.edu

Emma is a CL fellow on the general track. She currently serves as the Burn/Trauma liaison and works in both the GI and cardiovascular psychiatry clinics. Emma attended medical school at the University of Miami Miller School of Medicine, where she graduated with a pathway of emphasis in Ethics and Medical Humanities. She completed her psychiatry residency at the University of New Mexico, and as a PGY-4 she served as a CL chief resident. Her interests include critical care psychiatry, proactive psychiatry, and improving access to mental health care. In her free time, Emma enjoys playing music, spending time outdoors, and exploring the Boston area.
